

Incoming Payments

The payment system has to pass the payments affecting the lending operations on to the FlexFinance loans subledger as soon as they are entered. The incoming payments are checked by the account processing function and spread across the claims.

In addition, special cases such as overpayments and underpayments are identified and specifically processed.